WEATHER

WEATHER SYNOPSIS BY REGION:

NORTHERN CALIFORNIA:

Monsoon moisture will combine with low pressure and unstable conditions to produce increasing showers and thunderstorms across portions of Northern California through Monday. Most of the activity will occur near higher terrain, but some showers and storms may move into valleys, especially on Monday. A few isolated storms may continue into Tuesday in far northern areas as the low pressure begins to move off to the northeast, but a drying and warming trend will be underway in most areas by then. Many higher elevation locations will receive 0.50-1.00 inches of rainfall between now and Tuesday afternoon. High pressure will build over the region beginning late in the week and into next weekend and push temperatures up to 5-10 degrees above normal with low humidity and poor overnight relative humidity recovery in many inland areas. Light to locally moderate north-northeast surface winds may enhance these conditions from the lower western Sierra slopes to the coastal mountains from Thursday through Saturday. Also, southwest-west winds east of the Cascade-Sierra Crest Wednesday and Thursday will be closely monitored since they will occur in an area that had just received lightning.

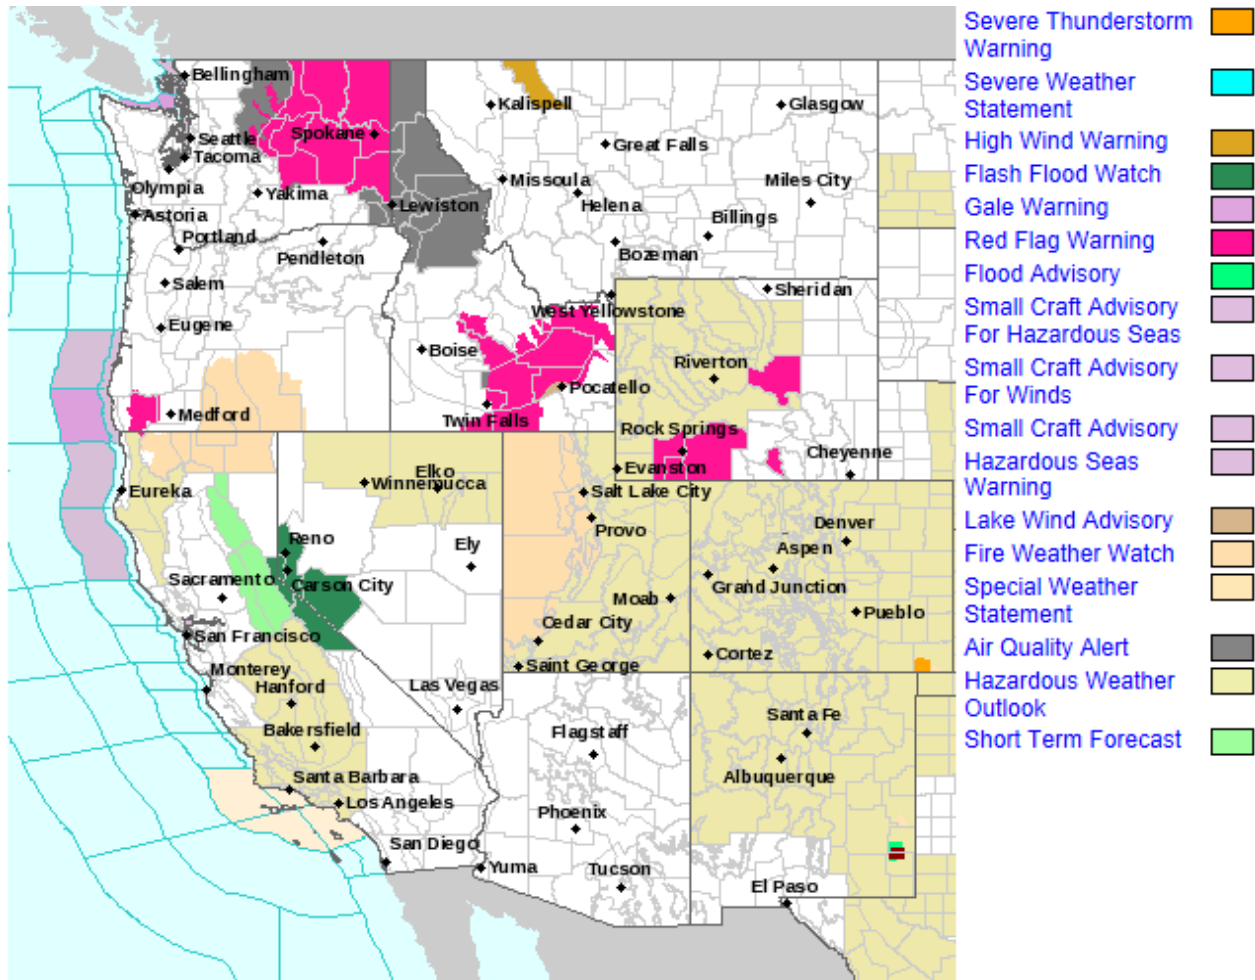

WEATHER

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA:

A weak area of low pressure moving northward across the region from Baja will bring scattered showers and thunderstorms mainly to the mountains and deserts through this evening. However, some showers and thunderstorms will also affect the coastal and valley areas. The shower and thunderstorm activity will end across Southern California tonight and across Central California Sunday morning, but continue over the Sierra through Sunday afternoon. Temperatures will remain below normal this weekend, with 70s to low 80s in the mountains and mid 80s to mid 90s in the valleys. A warming and drying trend will take place Monday through the end of next week as strong high pressure over the Southern Plains moves westward. Temperatures will reach the triple digits over most valley locations and minimum humidity will drop into the single digits away from the coast by Thursday. There will be no shower or thunderstorm activity across the entire region Monday through Thursday. Southeast flow aloft may bring isolated afternoon showers and thunderstorms back to the mountains and deserts of Southern California east of the Cajon Pass starting Friday.

Situational Summary

On January 17, 2014 Governor Edmund G. Brown proclaimed a State of Emergency and directed state officials to take all necessary actions to prepare for drought conditions. The State Operation Center (SOC) is activated to implement objectives in support of the Governor's priorities. The lack of winter rain and snowfall has resulted in extremely dry conditions in many parts of the State. Reservoir levels are down significantly from where they should be on average for this time of year. If conditions continue severe impacts to municipal water supplies, agriculture (plants and livestock) and firefighting capabilities are likely in store for the State over the next few months. Negative economic impacts will also result.

The drought could result in severe impacts to the municipal water supplies, wells, agriculture (plants and livestock) and firefighting capabilities for several months. The SOC continues to be activated to monitor the situation statewide, and support regional and local operational areas.

- On 7/15/14 the State Water Board passed new regulation to reduce out door urban water use. The regulation makes an exception for health and safety circumstances. Local agencies can ask courts to fine water users up to $500.00 a day and the SWRCB can fine water agencies up to $10,000.00 per day
- Reservoir Levels (% capacity): Reservoir Levels as of July 17 remain low, including: Don Pedro 47%; Exchequer 23%; Folsom Lake 44%; Lake Oroville 39%; Millerton Lake 57%; New Melones 28%; Pine Flat 23%; San Luis 26%; Lake Shasta 38%; Trinity Lake 39%; Pyramid Lake 92%; and Castaic Lake 46%. An update of water levels at other smaller reservoirs is also available.
 - San Luis Reservoir indicated a drop in capacity level from 29% to 26%.
 - Pine Flat Reservoir indicated a drop in capacity level from 28% to 23%

Situational Summary

On July 15, 2014, CDFA in partnership with U.C. Davis Center for Watershed Sciences released a study titled Economic Analysis of the 2014 Drought for California Agriculture. The study indicates the drought in California is the third most severe on record and is responsible for the greatest water loss ever seen for the state's agriculture, and river water for Central Valley farms has been reduced by roughly one-third, according. Direct costs to agriculture total about $1.5 billion (which include revenue losses of $1 billion and $0.5 billion in additional pumping costs). This net revenue loss is about 3% of the state's total agricultural value

Open Burn Ban in effect across the state: Open burning is now prohibited on 31 million acres of land across the state, due to a burn ban that CAL FIRE has directed each of its unit chiefs to implement. This ban on open burning in state responsibility areas (outside of cities and towns) reduces wildfire danger amidst extremely dry conditions.

The Taskforce continues to meet regularly to take actions that conserve water and coordinate state response to the drought.

Cal OES continues to gather drought-related costs from state agencies and local governments.
